According to a tweet from the LAPD on Wednesday, Rocky, whose legal name is Rakim Mayer's, was a part of an ongoing investigation into a Nov. 6 shooting in which an argument escalated and "resulted in the suspect firing a handgun at the victim." According to police, the victim was treated for minor injuries and received medical attention. Rocky and two other men allegedly fled the scene on foot, according to police.

A return that is unwelcome. ASAP According to multiple reports, Rocky was arrested at Los Angeles International Airport after returning from a vacation with Rihanna.

According to TMZ, the rapper, 33, was apprehended on Wednesday, April 20, after flying home from Barbados, where he and the pregnant singer, 34, were on vacation. Rocky's representatives have been contacted by Us Weekly.

The Los Angeles Police Department confirmed via Twitter that they had made an arrest in connection with a shooting that occurred earlier in November 2021. "The suspect has been identified as Rakim Mayer, 33, of Los Angeles, better known as music artist ASAP Rocky," according to the statement. Rocky allegedly got into an argument with an "acquaintance" in Hollywood, and when things got out of hand, he allegedly fired a handgun at the victim, who "sustained a minor injury," according to the LAPD. He was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon.

When he was 16, the AWGE founder was charged with attempted murder after a bully tried to intimidate him while he was a drug dealer in his hometown of Harlem, New York. "In front of some ladies, he tried to attack me." And I was a small child. "He was a little older than me," Rocky said in an appearance on Angie Martinez's series, The Untold Stories of Hip Hop, in October 2019. He admitted to shooting the other man during a fight because he thought his bully was reaching for his own gun. Before the charges were dropped, he spent some time in jail.

A$AP Rocky has the support of Justin Bieber, Shawn Mendes, and other celebrities. Following Arrest

The "Sundress" performer was arrested for assault in Stockholm, Sweden, in July 2019, after he and his entourage got into a fight with Mustafa Jafari. In August of that year, he was found guilty of assault and received a suspended prison sentence as well as a $1,270 fine.

Rocky's latest arrest is the latest in a series of controversies that he and Rihanna have faced while she was pregnant. The musician was accused of cheating on the "Work" singer with Fenty designer Amina Muaddi earlier this month, but she denied the accusations on Friday, April 15.

"I've always believed that an unfounded lie spread on social media doesn't deserve any response or clarification, especially one as vile as this," Muaddi wrote on Instagram. "At first, I didn't think this fake gossip, fabricated with such malice, would be taken seriously. However, in the last 24 hours, I've been reminded that we live in a society where people are so quick to speak on topics without considering the facts and that nothing is off-limits. Not even during what should be one of life's most beautiful and joyous occasions."

In February 2020, Us first reported that Rihanna and Rocky were "hooking up," and in May of that year, he confirmed the relationship. "It's a whole lot better once you've found The One." "She's probably the same as a million other ones," Rocky said at the time, referring to Rihanna as "the love of my life." Earlier this year, the couple announced that they are expecting their first child together.
